WHITE LINES BEING PAINTED ON HIGHWAYS

A number of road projects are scheduled for the county's state highway department workers during the next several weeks, J. William Kendlehart, Jr., superintendent of highways, announced today.

The "highway-line painter," a truck specially equipped to place white lines down the center of the highways, on Friday began its 400 miles of travels by placing lines on about 34 miles of road, and using about 400 gallons of paint in the process. It will be operating daily until the work is finished, which, according to present plans, will be prior to Memorial Day.

Noting that the paint takes at least a half-hour to dry, Kendlehart asked motorists to respect the markers placed over the freshly painted lines and avoid driving on the lines.

Workers are completing work on a bridge on the proposed new road between Bendersville and Mt. Tabor, with the actual construction of the 14-foot road to begin in about two weeks. The three-mile stretch of road will have a flexible base and a one-inch bituminous (black top) surface. Beginning 613 feet inside the Bendersville borough limits, the road will follow the present stabilized road for about one mile and then will follow a number of relocations cutting off curves, and end at Mt. Tabor where it connects with the road from Pitzers' corner to Peach Glen.

A two-mile road construction job in the southern end of the county has just been completed with placing of black-top. The base of the road was placed last year. Known as the Masonic camp road, it begins at the Taneytown road and ends at the Barlow road.

Stabilization has been started on Route 01008 starting one mile north of East Berlin and extending two miles north toward Bragtown (Anderson's Cross road).

Another road to be stabilized this summer is a two-mile stretch of Rt. 01002 extending from the Emmitsburg road at Greenmount due west to Rt. 01052.

NCCW PARISH UNIT ELECTS

St. Ignatius parish council of Catholic Women met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Virgie Hall, Buchanan Valley. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Catherine E. Miller. The opening prayer to Our Lady of Good Counsel was given by the pastor, the Rev. Louis J. Yeager.

The president urged all parish chairmen to send their annual reports in to the deans. Mrs. Evelyn Strassbaugh, chairman of Shrines in the Home, reported that 1,110 Hail Marys were said by the Council for Religious Vocations in the Diocese. The war relief chairman, Mrs. Anne Shields, reported that a package of clothing and food was sent to the German family adopted by the parish.

All of the members were urged to attend the quarterly deans meeting scheduled at St. Mary's parish, Fairfield, Sunday, June 19. Preliminary plans were discussed for the 24th annual convention of the Harrisburg Diocesan Council of Catholic Women to be held at Shamokin, July 13.

It was decided that the council would contribute remnants of cotton and woolen goods to the war-devastated countries. The women were asked to bring any such articles to the next meeting. This is a summer time project sponsored by the war relief committee.

It was announced that the movie, "Our Lady of Guadalupe," will be shown in the parish hall Sunday morning between the masses under the direction of the Sisters of Charity, Emmitsburg. Fr. Yeager asked the women to sponsor the preparing and serving of the breakfast to the first communion class, Sunday, May 29.

The election of officers followed with Miss Miller and Mrs. Elizabeth Dillon being reelected as president and vice president. Mrs. Charlotte Hall succeeding Mrs. Anne Cole Shields as secretary and Mrs. Helen Baker succeeding Mrs. Pearl Clapsdale.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held June 23 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Strassbaugh, Buchanan Valley.

Kinsey And Lane Photos Voted Best

Prints displayed by Paul A. Kinsey and Walter B. Lane tied for first place in the May print show at the regular meeting of the members of the Gettysburg Photographic society Friday evening at the home of Joseph Kendlehart, West Middle street.

An entry by Paul G. Pensinger placed second and one by David Garinkle was third. The judging was on the basis of the vote of the members in attendance. Twelve prints were displayed.

It was decided that June's print shall be a flower picture. The June 17 meeting will be held at the home of Philip Tyson. Ten members and a guest attended Friday's session.

SAYS DISEASE NO LONGER IS ARMY PROBLEM

"Disease is no longer a major problem for the army medical corps," Dr. James Allison, Emmitsburg, told members of Company E, 315th Infantry, a local Army Reserve outfit, at its regular meeting Friday evening at the Albert J. Lentz American Legion home, Baltimore street.

Preventative measures, including the "shots" all soldiers undergo, have proved so effective that the army's medical department is set up to concentrate on combat injuries, Doctor Allison pointed out.

"During the Civil war, for every soldier killed in action, there were four who died of disease," the Emmitsburg physician pointed out. "During the Spanish-American war for every one man killed in action 13 died as a result of disease. The tremendous increase here was due to the fact that the Spanish war was fought in another climate than our own, with different diseases. In World War I when the first preventative shots were available, the number of soldiers dying of disease was brought down to one for every one soldier killed in action. The efficacy of improved preventative and curative techniques is shown by comparing the World War I losses with the Civil War, for both were fought in about the same climatic conditions."

"In World War II the true test of modern medicine was given. Men fought not only in Europe but all over the world under all conditions. And the losses divided into 14 killed in action to every one man dying of disease."

"Because of this the army is able to set up its medical corps to handle more efficiently the problem of combat injury, and can provide better techniques and facilities for handling those wounds and injuries."

Doctor Allison also showed a motion picture on "Combat First Aid." Captain Donald Sheely, commanding officer of Company E, was in charge of the meeting and spoke on company organization at the opening of the session.

800 ENJOY SHOW BY HIGH SCHOOL BAND ON FRIDAY

Approximately 800 adults and children filled the new gymnasium at Gettysburg high school Friday evening for the second annual high school band show, presented indoors because of the cool weather.

A highlight of the show was the "dream" of Edwin S. Longanecker, Jr., four-year-old son of Band Director Edwin Longanecker. The toddler walked to a small bed, yawning, crawled in and then "fell asleep" and "dreamed." During his "dream" fairy tale characters appeared including Jack-in-the-box, the Calico Dog, Sinbad the Sailor, Hanzel, Gretel and the Witch, a group of elves, Raggedy Ann and Andy and a group of flowers. The characters were portrayed by the drum majors and majorettes of the band, and special lighting effects and costumes made the presentation effective.

Miss Betty Adam, girls' physical education teacher at the high school, arranged the dances which included besides the "dream" sequence, a twirling routine by Doris Hann and Barbara Shealer to the "E Pluribus Unum" march and a drum major review.

Musical Specialties
Richard Krick, supervisor of art in the public schools, was in charge of art work for the show.

The four trumpeters, Theodore Hay, Kenneth Deardorff, Alfred Levan and Linn Kepner; David Jones who presented a tuba solo; Ariene Lewis who sang "Begin the Beguine"; a clarinet trio, Barbara Retman, Dorothy Spence and Richard Hay; and five trombonists, all performed excellently. The trombone group included Ralph Sittler, Mervin Weiler, Gerald Keller, Harold Rafensperger and Fred Oyler.

Another highlight was a "musical wedding" featuring Mary Evans, Ralph Sittler, Dwight Putman, and Donald Gordon.

Four States Are Whiplashed By Tornadoes Friday Evening

(By The Associated Press)
Tornadoes whiplashed four states across the nation's midsection last (Friday) night.

Two persons were killed. Nearly a score were injured. Property damage was unestimated.

Hardest hit was Oklahoma. But twisters flicked out at scattered communities in Colorado, Kansas and, far across the Mississippi Valley, caught two small eastern Tennessee communities.

The Kansas City Weather Bureau blamed the mad May disturbances—it was Oklahoma's fourth straight night of twisters—on a deep low pressure "trough" running up through northwestern Oklahoma to Nebraska.

In addition to the tornadoes that struck, perhaps a dozen others were

RECEPTACLES ARE PLACED BY ACORN CLUB

Gettysburg's oldest service group, the Acorn Club, has placed four large metal containers for waste paper and other debris on Center square with the hope of giving the center of town a cleaner appearance.

Placing of the containers marks the culmination of a program begun a number of years ago by the club when it determined to do something about the trash and litter that frequently mars the appearance of the center of the borough. The war, and priorities on steel prevented purchase of containers sturdy enough for the job and the manufacturer from whom the boxes were purchased finally delivered this week.

Long Record Of Service
Burgess C. A. Heiges commented the club today on the completion of the project and urged everyone to use the boxes for waste paper disposal. The containers will be painted and marked as a donation by the Acorn club.

The 16 members of the almost 30-year-old organization (it will celebrate its anniversary in September) are noted for a number of civic activities starting with the organization of the YWCA. The club's first project was to sell bricks for the then-to-be-formed YWCA and also engaged in entertaining various groups and telling them about YWCA activities as part of the organizational drive for the local Young Women's Christian Association.

Later the organization devoted much of its activity to aiding the hospital through benefit activities to raise money for the local institution.

CHIANG'S REGIME MUST REFORM FOR U. S. AID

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

There is a tendency in some Chinese Nationalist circles to find encouragement in Secretary of State Acheson's statement to a Senate committee that America won't recognize a Communist regime in China so long as a Nationalist government exists.

However, it strikes me as a rather grasping at straws for Nationalists to try to extract much satisfaction from such a general remark. True, the statement seems to indicate that Washington has no intention of recognizing a Communist regime at this time. That in itself must be a matter of gratification for the Chinese Nationalists, since there has been much speculation whether the United States might recognize the Red Chinese if they dominated the country.

Still, it should be noted that Mr. Acheson didn't pledge himself very far in any direction. He appears to be pursuing a course of watchful waiting.

This much seems clear from recent developments: Washington has no present intention of rushing to the aid of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's refugee Nationalist government. The Generalissimo, whose personal stock is below par in Washington, will have to produce a far more liberal and progressive form of government before he can win much further support.

This doesn't mean that Uncle Sam is going to put the stamp of approval on any Communist government and give it his support. We are against Communism. However, we recognize numerous Communist governments, and maintain representatives in their capitals. Thus there's no reason for anyone to assume that the United States wouldn't recognize a Chinese Communist government if it was an established and going concern.

By the same token there's no reason to assume—at least as I see it—that the United States might not even give support to some new government, should such be formed by substantial and progressive elements and demonstrate that it could pull its weight. That idea, by the way, may not be so far fetched as might seem.

Generalissimo Chiang gets much of his support from powerful warlords. Those warlords might regroup and establish a new regime. As a matter of fact, Chiang might be smart if he encouraged just such a move in view of the political bankruptcy of his own government.

WOULD TAKE BENCH OUT OF POLITICS

State College, Pa., May 21 (AP)—Pennsylvania editors were urged today to get behind a plan designed to take the judiciary in the state out of politics.

"Wouldn't it be helpful to the administration of justice to take judges out of politics?" asked Melville F. Ferguson, editor, Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, in an address at the annual Pennsylvania editorial conference.

The plan, backed by the Pennsylvania Bar Association, was submitted to the 1949 Legislature but the bill setting up machinery for its operation failed to get out of committee.

"You are going to hear more of this plan for it has a greater life expectancy than any politician now living," Ferguson told the editors.

He explained that under the plan when a vacancy occurs in the judiciary, the governor will appoint a judge from a list of three submitted by a commission created for that purpose. After the judge has served a year, his name will go on the ballot for a full term or for rejection by the voters. Should the voters reject him, the governor would make another appointment.

The sole purpose is to get the judiciary out of politics so far as that may be done by legislation and to raise the general tone of the bench," Ferguson said.

Littlestown — Approximately 80 pupils of the sixth grades in the Littlestown school jointure took Junior-Senior high school entrance examinations on Friday in the high school building. Due to the Junior-Senior high school set-up, examinations are now taken by the sixth grade pupils instead of in the eighth grade as in previous years. There will be no further high school entrance examinations for those who pass these tests. The results of these tests will be announced later.

These tests, furnished by the county office, were in charge of John H. Riley, Frank Basehoar and Lloyd L. Stavelly of the faculty. At the same time, the school nurse, Mrs. Brenda Walker gave examinations to the overage pupils. The rural pupils were transported to and from the high school in the school buses. SHANGHAI IS CUT OFF BY AIR FROM WORLD

By FRED HAMPSON

Shanghai, May 21 (AP)—Shanghai today was cut off by air, her sea lane menaced, and great fires blazed across the river to the east and north where Red besiegers are on the attack.

One of the fires burned at the Standard-Vacuum depot on Gough island, eight miles north of downtown Shanghai. At least one tank was ablaze at this biggest oil installation in East Asia.

Lungwha airport, five miles to the south, suspended operations. The menace of nearby Red artillery was too great. Officials said, however, flights might be resumed later in the day.

"Biggies" Flee City

Despite the suspension, a Chinese National Aviation Corporation plane from Tokyo made a two-minute landing to the crackle of small arms fire nearby.

It hastily discharged A. S. Brown, Peekskill, N. Y., new fiscal officer for the U. S. consulate, John Stutesman, Mendham, N. J., the vice-consul, then got aboard and the plane roared off for Hong Kong. Stutesman is headed for home on leave.

Three Chinese civilian planes at the airport were commandeered by the military. They were standing by to take out biggies (high Chinese officials) still in Shanghai.

The garrison commander ordered all but military traffic off the Whangpoo—Shanghai's sea lane—during afternoon hours. Red small arms fire has been hitting junks and sampans on the river.

Dependable Reports Scarce

The fighting ebbed and flowed around Pootung, the industrial district across the Whangpoo from Shanghai. It raged throughout the night. It continued under soggy skies this morning. At one time last night, 27 fires could be counted in and beyond the Pootung district.

It was feared the Standard-Vacuum fire might spread to other tanks there and to the neighboring Texas company installation. Communist troops were reported to have infiltrated Gough island and were engaged by Nationalist troops. The fire resulted.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain dependable information. However, it was learned that the fortress of Woosung 10 miles to the north still is being defended doggedly against attack from the west.

MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE COMBAT

The hungry Mexican bean beetle can be completely controlled. In other words, there are no excuses for gardeners allowing this pest to even slightly damage bean crops, much less to cause heavy losses or entire ruin. A few pertinent facts about the successful combat of this pest are stressed below, facts which every gardener should remember and put into practice.

The greenish to orange, spine-covered slug or grub seen on beans when the adult copper-colored Mexican bean beetle is present is not another kind of insect. It is the larva or young of the beetle. It, too, feeds as ravenously as the parent beetle.

This pest and its young feed almost exclusively on the under sides of bean leaves, seldom eating through the thin membrane that forms the top surface of the leaf. Translated into practical facts, this means that insecticides applied only on the top surfaces of the leaves will not control the beetle. The poison must be applied on the portions of the foliage the pests eat — the under sides of the leaves. Too much emphasis cannot be placed on this advice, as it is usually the main key to Mexican bean beetle control.

Combat should start when one beetle or one cluster of eggs are found to 6 feet (2 strides) of bean row. To discover the beetles, strike the plant swiftly with the edge of the hand. To find the eggs, look for orange-yellow clusters found on the under sides of the leaves. The most effective insecticide, and at the same time the safest for both the bean plant and persons who ultimately eat the beans, is derris (rotenone) applied as a spray or dust. As a spray a derris powder containing 5 per cent rotenone should be used at the rate of 1 1/4 pounds to 50 gallons of water or 3 level tablespoonsful to a gallon of water. If a different strength powder is used to make the spray, follow directions to form a spray with a rotenone content of .015 per cent.

As dusts derris may be purchased already prepared or in a concentrate form. The prepared form is recommended. In using either spray or dust, emphasis should be kept on advice already stressed — coat the under side of the leaves. If combat is started when the first beetles, their spiny young, or yellowish eggs are discovered, two to four applications may serve to protect the crop. But in all cases combat should continue as long as beetles remain. There are no merits in spraying or dusting beans before the pests arrive or after they are exterminated.

Neighbors should talk over the vital fact that bean beetles travel from unsprayed to sprayed gardens. For all neighbors to keep this pest killed off with the exception of a solitary careless gardener may mean that none of them will enjoy complete freedom from crop losses. The most successful neighborhood control is attained when all bean growers participate in combat efforts.

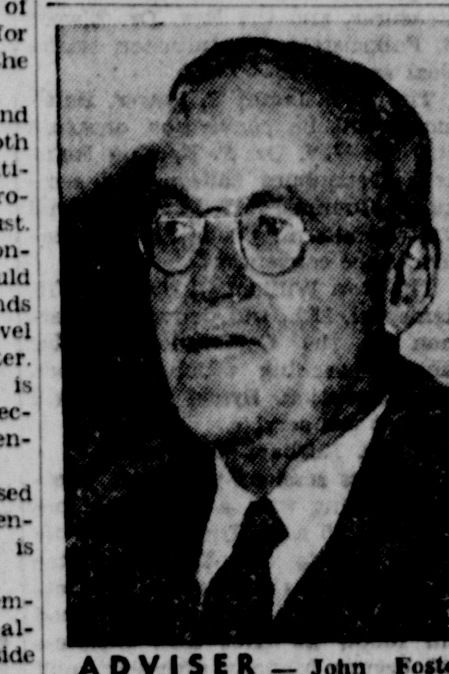

Another important step in better control and especially in reducing survivors for the next year is to plow under all bean refuse as soon as the crop is harvested. Burning is advised if deep plowing under is not feasible.

Gardeners who have any questions to ask in control of this pest are urged to write the editor at once. Merely enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope or a 3-cent stamp and your questions will be answered by personal return mail.

Coach Shoemaker's outfit can create a tie for the lead next Wednesday when Shippensburg is met in the final league game at Shippensburg. Chambersburg has already completed its loop schedule.

The Warriors scored three runs in the first inning after two were out. Kump gained first base on an error. Bucher followed with an infield hit and Knox doubled. A single by Biesecker concluded the rally.

Three more runs came in the second frame. Kitzmiller opened with a walk and Bushman tripled to center field. A pass to Signor, and an error on Kump's bouncer sent across the tallies.

Hanover tabbed three runs in the sixth on three bases on balls, two errors and a single.

The locals added two runs in the last of the sixth. Kump and Bucher opened with hits and after Knox had grounded out, Biesecker singled to score the runners.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE DEPENDABLES

Some years ago the late Elbert Hubbard wrote an essay about a man named Rowan, whom President McKinley selected to carry a message to Garcia, the Cuban General, during the Spanish-American war.
It appeared in his little magazine,
"The Philistine," and was later called a "Message to Garcia." It was distributed all over the world into millions of copies.

The gist of the story was that the President had a message that he wanted, delivered, and immediately some one said: "There is a fellow by the name of Rowan who will do the job." And so he was selected. He listened, took the message, sealed it in an oilskin pouch next his heart, and was off. No questions asked, no excuses. Through the jungles he went—alone—and delivered the letter. He was one of those dependables so rare in this world. No wonder his fame spread like wildfire!

As never before, in offices, factories, in government positions—everywhere—there is a continual call for dependable persons—people who will do their work in a dependable fashion, and without complaint.
People who will listen, grasp the situation, and then do the job happily and efficiently. In every organization there are these dependables, and they are the salt of the earth.

Once one of these dependables gives his word, it's as a bond. You can dismiss all worry about such a one. If you select only this sort to carry on your work, you can know no failure. The dependables will see to that.

It's the same with one's friendships. You tie to the dependable friend for life. In every experience in life you will know just where to find such a one, and he will not desert you when you need him. His advice and counsel will be genuine.
His worth is that of pure gold—even better!

You can venture after with people who are dependable. They will go the route. You respect, honor, and love, that one who is dependable under all circumstances. It's all in his eyes, his walk, his words —and his acts!

BERLIN RAILWAY WORKERS BLOCK SUPPLY LINES

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Berlin, May 21 (AP)—Berlin railway workers, striking against their Russian bosses, blockaded west Berlin's rail supply lines today and battled Communist strike breakers in the streets.

Ugly tension flared into fighting when the Russian controlled railway management sent squads of militant young Communists into the western sectors to "recapture" railway stations seized by the anti-Communist strikers. An elevated passenger train was set ablaze during one melee.

Police To Act
The west Berlin government announced its police would quell "further intervention" by Communist raiders from the Soviet zone.

Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley, U. S. commandant, expressed sympathy for the strikers, and questioned whether it was the strike or Russian maneuvering which had halted freight shipments from western Germany.

He said the Russians "could settle the strike very easily" if they had the desire, and meet the strikers' "entirely legitimate" demand for payment of wages in West marks, which are four times as valuable as the Soviet zone currency they now receive.

The strikers' press bureau, he said, announced last night that freight from western Germany to Berlin would be allowed to move, and the strike was aimed only at trains from the Soviet zone. The stoppage of freight from west Germany, he asserted, therefore was "unnecessary."

"Terror Tactics"
He accused Communist strikebreakers of "terror tactics" similar to those of the strong arm tactics of Hitler's followers.

West Berlin city officials said at noon, however, that the walkout actually had completely disrupted freight movements, despite the promises mentioned by Howley.

Howley, checking reports of fighting, said he would not hesitate to order United States troops to back up the west German police if this becomes necessary. He had just heard about a fight in which rioters nearly stripped some young women who became involved.

He accused Communist strikebreakers of using "terror tactics" similar to those of Hitler's terrorists.

Scores of minor casualties were reported in a series of fights between strikers and young Communists sent in to try to break the strike. The police fired pistols into the air to break up a fight in the Tempelhof section, but it started again, and the Communists seized the railway station there.

JUDGE BIGGS' IMPEACHMENT IS SUGGESTED

Washington, May 21 (AP)—Rep.
James C. Davis (D-Ga.) said today he is "seriously considering" bringing formal impeachment proceedings against Federal Judge John Biggs, Jr., of Philadelphia.

Davis angrily told the House yesterday that Biggs, a judge on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, should be removed from the bench.
What's more, he said, Biggs should be tried for "aiding and abetting the escape of a criminal."

Biggs wrote the majority opinion when the Third Circuit Court ruled five to one Wednesday not to permit the extradition of Leon Johnson, 34-year-old Negro who escaped to Pennsylvania while serving a life term for murder in Georgia.

To Get Freedom
In denying Georgia's demand for Johnson's return, the court ruled that a state cannot extradite a pris-

The decision reversed three lower courts and had the effect of freeing Johnson from the Allegheny county jail.

"Biggs, in this case," Davis said,
"is as guilty of aiding and abetting an escape as any accomplice who ever harbored and gave shelter to a criminal in his home while the sheriff looked for him."

He said the justice took over for himself and his colleagues Georgia's authority to nullify a legal sentence of a competent state court.

FARMS & BUSINESS PROPERTIES WANTED

Farmers and Business Men—If you have a farm or a business property for sale, list where you get service, with the oldest and largest Real Estate Organization in the world—Strout Realty Agency—serving the public for 49 consecutive years, and the Gettysburg Branch Office established 27 years ago.

There are four catalogues gotten out each year and in each issue we use 34½ tons of paper. More than 250,000 copies are mailed to prospects in every state in the union and to foreign countries. Also, advertise in 3,000 papers and magazines in every state in the union.
In addition to 100 or more inquiries every month, the Gettysburg Agency receives from the General Office names and addresses of more than 1,200 prospects every month. Thousands upon thousands of farms and business properties sold every year by this organization.

Of the approximate 750 Associates in the United States, the Gettysburg Agency in 1943 was first in sales in the United States, and since that time has ranked from second to fifth—last year ranked fourth. The Gettysburg Agency has been in the sales column for the past 95 months—eight years. With the Strout Agency we have no particular season; every month is the same.

Due to the large number of sales the past few months, we need more property for sale, especially some cheap properties around $1,500 to $3,000. Also some reasonably priced stocked and equipped farms, and some state highway farms, as state highway farms reasonably priced after listing is only a matter of a few days until sold. During the past month listed one at $13,500 and sold it the next day; another well stocked and equipped at $15,000. Listed it and sold it the same day.

Now working on a new catalogue and need a variety of farms and business places immediately. We have the prospects waiting—you have the properties—let's get together. If you want to sell, list with Strout.

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Over 3,000 nuts are needed to hold a car together but just one's enough to tear it apart.

Improve As You Go
It probably will take years to sell the idea to the motoring public, but there is no truth in the belief that a car is at its best when reasonably new and that its life from there on is one gradual toboggan ride to the graveyard. Actually many a car has been greatly improved several years after it has been giving what seem to be its best years.

Because car makers are always trying to improve their products, it pays to keep in close touch with the car dealer. I owe the success of my present car to switching to a later model carburetor. Many an owner who has bought a new motor for his old car thought he was merely getting rid of the discarded engine's wear and tear only to discover that he was buying the benefits of some new features. Good driving will improve a car materially. So will skillful tuning. A good mechanic can change the whole feel of a car. This is particularly true of steering. We have to bear in mind constantly that the manufacturer has to slant his product for many average tastes. Finally, there are the new accessories which always make any car better.

Short Stroke Now
With warmer weather coming along it is time to consider the detail of setting the arm of the carburetor's acceleration pump for a shorter stroke. You do not need so large a slug of raw gasoline when the engine is running hotter. As a matter of fact, too much fuel injected into the carburetor body in warm weather has an adverse effect on performance. It is just like running on an over-rich mixture. Logy.

Three To Remember
You can replace the fan or generator belt on some cars much easier if the engine is jacked up a little. This gives more space between the lower side of the pulley and the frame.

Noise heard when decelerating and while riding the clutch pedal is due to the throwout bearing. But if the noise is not as high pitched and is heard only when the clutch is disengaged the clutch pilot bearing is usually the culprit.

Where gear changes are controlled electrically trouble with the system may affect the engine by causing momentary ignition lapses.

Mechanic Joe Speaking:
"Chattering of the whole car when starting in low gear or when backing up may be due to the clutch, to poor handling of the engine's power or to defects in the design of the car itself. But in my work of fussing around cars I often find that this sort of troublesome chatter is due to looseness of stabilizer bars. These are the torque rods which on some cars take the "drive" or "push" between wheels and body-frame. Trouble is usually at the front end attachment of the bars. Where threads are so worn that the bolts cannot be taken up, I do a welding job."

New Kind of Puncture
Oddest thing in the tires world these days is the sort of puncture that develops without benefit of a sharp object or a pinching of the tube. The explanation lies in static discharge. Spark from such a discharge may be hot enough to burn a hole in the tube and let air leak out slowly. This happens only in very hot, dry weather and in cases where static is a problem. Fortunately, also, any tires which are creating static excessively will give you fair warning by disturbing reception on your car radio. Static powder can be blown into tires to stop this condition, but some tire men do not like the idea.

"It's 'Spring' Time
Go slowly over those chuck holes in the winter-torn roads, if you have any regard for the car's springs. Especially avoid sudden application of the brakes while the car is traversing rough patches because the springs on some cars take the braking torque as well as doing their normal job of shock absorbing. Contrary to popular belief coil spring can sag and should be replaced if found to have lost their normal tension.

Added to Your Oil
The subject of oil additives, those special lubes which are put into the engine oil for special effects, is something that would make a subject for your master's degree if you wanted to go into it. There are so many kinds of detergents and dispersants, ranging from those that minimize ring sticking to those that protect against bearing corrosion and oil oxidation. Some of these additives serve to dispose of lacquers, sludge and insoluble oil contaminants which form in the oil of the best regulated engines. One type of detergent is used by the industry to insure oil stability. And, moreover, there are the additives for gear lubricants. One aids materially in giving hypoid rear end gears a better chance of survival. One interesting function of additives is to help keep motor oils fluid at low temperatures.

Cold Rubber to Rescue
When the smoke clears away it will be found that the discovery and amazingly rapid introduction of cold rubber has been the life-saver for the low pressure tire. Things had not been going too well. On front wheels especially the super tires were wearing spotty and causing all manner of steering problems. Cold rubber is 20 per cent tougher than previous synthetics and is actually better wearing than natural. Besides it has the elasticity which synthetic rubber lacked. Some of the rubber companies are in 100 per cent pro-

"Hopping Up" Costly
To the lads who are always asking for advice about "hopping up" the engine I just want to pass along some apropos advice of seasoned mechanics who have tried shaving down engine heads for higher compression and boring the cylinders for oversize pistons to increase cubic inch displacement. Sure, the engine will be livelier and more powerful, but you'll probably pay for it in burned bearings and the various troubles that go with overheating.

Hotter operation means more warpage. Increased piston pressure means faster bearing wear. It all adds up to expense.

Having Their Troubles
Q. What would cause the lights on my car to dim occasionally when driving? I know that the battery is a little low and am not surprised when the dimming occurs during idling, but I also get this condition when the car is running at 25 to 40 miles an hour. H. L.

A. The generator belt is slipping. Q. I am thinking of "souping up" my car, but find that this will run into a lot of money, considering the need for new manifolds, new carburetors, new ignition and the high (Please Turn to Page 8)

BIG THREE TO DRAFT POLICY FOR GERMANY

Paris, May 21 (AP)—The American, British and French foreign ministers will meet today to coordinate their policies on Germany before next week's Big Four conference.

The three western ministers — Secretary of State Dean Acheson and the British and French foreign ministers, Ernest Bevin and Robert Schuman—will have before them a detailed plan for German policy drafted by their chief deputies this week.

The deputies' recommendation are secret and probably will remain so until after the Big Four conference starts. Well-informed officials, however, predict that the ministers will approve it quickly. It was worked out under guidance of the ministers themselves.

Well-informed French sources said the report embraces a project for a provisional, semi-unified German regime, which would maintain some liaison between a newly-formed west German state and a regime in process of formation in the Soviet occupation zone.

The plan also is said to contain provisions for exchanging west marks and Soviet zone currency, and arrangements to stimulate trade between the two sections of Germany.

The western powers are expected to urge extension of the west German constitution to all of Germany, but will offer semi-unification if Russia refuses to put the Soviet zone under the constitution.

The foreign ministers conference will open Monday afternoon at an hour dependent upon the arrival of Russia's foreign minister Vyshinsky.

Austrian Demands

Foreign Minister Karl Gruber of Austria said in Vienna yesterday his country will demand United Nations recognition as a sovereign state and the withdrawal of occupation troops if the big powers do not agree at Paris on an Austrian independence treaty.

In 1947, Canada imported $2,000,000,000 worth of goods from the United States.

Peddler of Dreams By Peggy Dern

Chapter 18

At the end of the week Felicity received a letter from Uncle Charles. He had been very happy to hear that things were going so well. He felt that Tippy was very fortunate to be on the verge of being adopted by Susan Fleming, and was sending her a costume for herself and one for Garrett. And he added:

About your play, I don't know why anybody should be surprised to know you've written one. I've read it and I'm not going to tell you what I think of it for fear you may feel that I am prejudiced; in fact I may be, because I am very fond of you. But I am sending it along to a friend of mine who is actively producing. I'll forward you his report as soon as I get it.

Yes, I am very proud of your father. I didn't think he had it in him. I'm afraid I'll have to change my opinion of him, at this late date. That he would be willing to take a job as a department store Santa Claus argues that he must be more of a man than I thought.

Felicity let the letter drop from her nerveless hands and was deeply thankful that the children were out playing and that she alone knew there was a letter from Uncle Charles. Father a department store Santa Claus! And that pitifully brave letter he had written about "a new part in which I am really the lead." The apologies for sending only ten dollars a week! "An actor has to dress, you know, and maintain a front—entertain the press—" Oh, poor Father! How he must hate it!

She drew a long breath at last and tore the letter into minute bits. Nobody must know. The children must go on thinking that Father was back on his beloved Broadway; that he was playing a big role — "really the lead"—in a new production. But when at the end of the week his letter came, with the usual ten-dollar bill enclosed, she could not keep back her tears, knowing that only through a genuine sacrifice had he been able to send even that much.

The box of costumes arrived. The one for Felicity was a hoop-skirted affair of Civil War days. Garrett's costume was that of a dandy of the same period. The children were wild with excitement and admiration when Garrett and Felicity put on a dress rehearsal a few days before Christmas.

Christmas itself was a time of mixed pleasure and pain. Felicity felt the loss of Tippy from their small circle. But since Denny didn't seem to feel it, and since Ellen was thriving, gaining a bit of bloom in her pale cheeks, and Cornelia seemed entirely happy, Felicity told herself she was being foolish and tried to let it go at that.

The problem of cooking a turkey, when Jason reported that turkeys themselves," Felicity said shakily. "And that's asking a man to wait rather a long time."

Ma Green peered at her shrewdly and nodded. "He'll wait," she said firmly, and turned briskly away.

Chapter 19

Late in the afternoon of Christmas Eve a station wagon from the Fleming place arrived, commanding the presence of the children at a party at Casa del Mar, and they drove off, big-eyed with excitement. Twenty minutes later, another car drove in to the camp and paused beside the Horne trailer. And from it a uniformed chauffeur and footman brought armfuls of packages, beautifully wrapped.

When the chauffeur and footman had gone, Felicity stared at the glittering heap of packages and said uneasily, "How will I explain it to them? Last Christmas there was an orange, a handful of nuts and a penny's worth of candy for each of them, and one ten-cent-store toy apiece."

Garrett put an arm about her and held her close, his cheek against her hair.

"And they probably got just as much of a wallop out of it as they will this!" he assured her.

Her lifted eyes met his. A little thread of ecstasy raced between them. His eyes warmed, deepened, and his arms drew her close. "Have you any idea how sweet you are, darling?" he said huskily, "or how perfectly mad I am about you?"

"You—you won't get tired of waiting for me?"

"Only waiting long enough for my book to be accepted and published. I think I can possibly wait that long for you—though I'm not what you might call a very patient guy."

Felicity clung to him with both hands before she could answer. "It will have to be until the children are able to shift for themselves — and Ellen is not yet eight," she told him breathlessly.

"Look, sweetheart," he said contritely, "it's Christmas. So what say we forget all the tears and just remember you're you and I'm me, and I love you, and—for some unheard-of reason I can't possibly understand but for which I give hourly thanks—you love me. That, for the immediate present, is all that matters. Okay?"

"Okay," said Felicity shakily, and his answering kiss was like a warm, sweet wine flowing through her body and giving her a happiness unlike anything she had ever known or dreamed before.

It was after seven o'clock when the children came home. Tired, excited, clamorous with the effort to tell Felicity immediately everything that had happened. Cornelia, who had been torn between a perfectly normal desire to attend the party and an equally normal dislike of being listed as a child, was quiet as she helped Ellen get ready for bed, while Felicity saw to it that Denny's hands and ears were clean before he was tucked in bed.

Afterwards Felicity questioned Cornelia about Tippy.

"Did she seem happy?" she asked.

"Happy?" Cornelia's forthright tone scorned the inadequacy of the Complete Trial Of Union's President

Philadelphia, May 21 (AP)—Trial of President L. S. Buckmaster of the CIO-United Rubber Workers has been completed by the Union's executive board. General counsel G. L. Patterson said today, however, the board has not decided when to make the decision public. The union counsel declined to announce on what charges Buckmaster was tried by the 13-man board.

Last week the Philadelphia Inquirer reported the union president was being tried on these counts: Making unauthorized statements to of the Intermediate requirements. There was a discussion on how to display and care for the U. S. flag. The troop played a few singing games out-of-doors.

EXECUTIVE BD. TO FIX POLICY OF AUTHORITY

Harrisburg, May 21 (AP)—Financial policies of the state's public school building authority will be developed by a five-man executive committee of the agency.

Chester M. Woolworth, Secretary of Property and Supplies and authority chairman, named the smaller group to work out a program on the problems immediately facing the agency.

One of the first tasks of the new group will be the determination of how authority bonds will be issued. So far unsettled is the question of whether bonds will be sold for each school project or whether a number of projects will be lumped together for each bond issue.

40-Year Rentals

The agency was set up by the 1947 General Assembly to aid local school districts construct badly needed buildings. The most recent survey has shown that local officials are looking to the authority to help them finance in whole or in part $138,000,000 worth of school buildings and similar structures.

School districts will pay off the cost of new buildings by rentals to the authority over as long as 40-year periods.

Named to the executive group were Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction; Charles R. Barber, state treasurer; Auditor General Weldon B. Heyburn; Speaker Herbert P. Sorg and Rep. H. G. Andrews, House Democratic leader.

Added Two Officers

The 1949 General Assembly increased the membership of the commission by the addition of the state's two fiscal officers and the minority leaders of the legislature. It also authorized it to build athletic fields as well as schools and extended from 30 to 40 years the period in which bonds can be retired by rentals.

The legislative action came shortly after the State Supreme court ruled the authority method of financing school construction was constitutional. That question had held up the authority program for more than a year.

In addition to formulating policies for the school authority, the executive group will co-ordinate its program with that of the other two new state authorities—the General State Building authority and the State Highway and Bridge authority—to avoid any overlapping.

The membership on all the authorities is almost identical.

UNDERSTANDING IS URGENT NEED SAYS BANKER

Atlantic City, N. J., May 21 (AP)—“Understanding between those who lead and those who follow and between those who have and those who have not.”

That is the nation's greatest need, the president of the American Bankers' association said yesterday.

Evans Woolen, Jr., told the closing session of the 55th annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association:

“We need understanding between government and business; between capital and labor; between finance and industry; between ownership and management.”

Ready To Serve

Woolen said the banking industry “stands ready to serve its government by consultation on questions of fiscal management, monetary theory and central bank policy.”

The national economy in recent months “has largely come into balance,” he said, making it unnecessary for the Federal Reserve Board to seek additional controls over bank reserves and business credit.

D. Emmert Brumbaugh, secretary of banking in Pennsylvania, concurred with Woolen that Senate Bill No. 1775—which would extend the authority of the Federal Reserve System over the reserve requirements of state-insured, non-member banks—is unnecessary.

“This proposal is a distinct threat to the independent system of unit banking in America, and a definite attempt to abolish the dual banking system,” Brumbaugh added.

Ford Mediation Is Near Collapse

Detroit, May 21 (AP)—Government men strove today to save the Ford strike negotiations from collapse.

In a developing emergency Federal mediators worked to keep the company and the striking CIO United Auto Workers at the peace table.

The strike's 11th negotiation session was scheduled today.

A union ultimatum to walk out unless Ford agreed to start 1949 contract negotiations on Monday forced the new issue on the UAW “speed-up” strike's 17th day.

Ford, all of whose 106,000 production workers are idle, bluntly refused.

Gresh, pastor of St. James Lutheran church here will deliver the benediction at the exercises in the National Cemetery here. Radio Station WHVR, Hanover, will broadcast the cemetery exercises, starting at 3:30 o'clock on the afternoon of May 30. Among the marching units will be the York unit of the Naval Reserves, which participated last year for the first time. The Waynesboro VFW Drum and Bugle corps will lead the Veterans of Foreign Wars delegation in the parade, it was announced.
